THE "PALACE HOTEL"
A New Jersey Man's Description of It.
[N. J. Democrat.]

This hotel is so wonderful that it merits a description. It is built on a gigantic scale, and is capable of containing one-fourth of the population of the city. It takes up an area of about 1,000 acres, and is fitted up regardless of expense with all the newest inventions. The blocks in the vestibule are of solid gold, and the railings of the stairs are silver mounted. There are 150 beautiful clerks behind a solid rosewood counter, a quarter of a mile in length, ornamented with silver. Each clerk has his hair parted in the middle, wears a diamond pin, and is exquisitely polite. There are 25,000 hall boys, one for each room and numbered. They are located in a large basement room, communicating with the office by trap doors. The bell is rung by some impatient lodger in want of something, and down goes the clerk's foot on the corresponding pedal, and up shoots the hall boy, sometimes a dozen at once.
He is put in a box, shut up in a pneumatic tube, and whisked right into the room designated by the bell's dial. A door in the wall opens to receive him, an automatic clamp seizes him by the coat collar, and he is quietly dropped to the floor. Going up stairs you would be astonished at the magnificent suits of parlors, miles in extent. In the ladies' grand parlor are stationed a fashionable dressmaker and man milliner, who are in direct telegraphic communication with Paris.

The gentleman's reading-rooms, lounging-rooms, smoking-rooms, bath-rooms, barber-rooms, billiard and private rooms for privacy while dining and wine, are both numerous and elegant; even the spittoons are made of gold. The elevators, 300 in number, conveying guests from the bottom to the twenty-fifth floor, half a mile up, are beautifully upholstered, and furnished with every convenience to the traveler. The ladies' elevators have toilet tables and accessories, refreshment counters, full length mirrors, and sofas to recline on. The gentlemen's have a bar and restaurant attached, and also a barber-shop run by the motive power of the elevator. Each single room or suit is supplied with faucets connecting with a pipe running from huge tanks on the roof which contain different wines, brandies, sherries, also lager, liquors and bitters, also patent medicines. The flow from these tanks is registered at the office so that the clerks can tell at any time what drinking is going on all over the house. In the center of the hotel block is a hollow square, occupied by a menagerie, a circus, an opera house, and two theaters, tragedy and comedy, which are kept open exclusively for the benefit of the guests, who are admitted free. In the large dining hall, two acres square, 2,000 waiters dash about recklessly on skates. They are of all nationalities, and are required to be accomplished skaters.

There is a circular railway on every floor, to enable ladies and people in delicate health to visit each other while stopping at the hotel. A band of 250 pieces performs on top of the roof every evening, and at sunset a park of 100 pieces of cannon are fired off. The effect is grand.

Every evening a celebrated aeronaut goes up in a balloon from the square in the middle of the hotel, which is called the plaza. It is astonishing that in such a vast caravansary so few people get hurt; only about a dozen a day are killed. The hotel has its own undertaker, doctor, and druggist. The arrangement for escape in case of fire and panic are ample. Hose and buckets are on every floor; and in each room ingeniously arranged in the ceiling is a tank of water; by pulling a cord, the room is flooded in a moment.

Kleptomania is a very stubborn and far-reaching disease. Its ravages can only be checked by a policeman.—[The

DOWN WITH MONOPOLIES

Parties have been enquiring of us, "How it is that we sell our goods so cheap?" The answer is, "That we buy our goods for Cash, and sell for Cash." This is a satisfactory condition to the purchasers as well as to ourselves. "Quick Sales and Small Profits" is our motto, and don't you forget that; and from hereafter we shall gradually increase our stock of Therefore be at ease and we will remain with you till the man leaves Pioche. As a good many have been complaining about our leaving this camp for California, as we intended at first, but for the kind patronage which we have received in the last four months from the people of Pioche and its vicinity, we came to the conclusion to stay here and share its fate. Our staying here will indeed be to the purchasers advantage, as our motto is, "Live and Let Live." Do not let yourselves go astray, provided you miss our place. Consequently the calamity is now over, for we will stay here to please the public. Monopoly must be wiped out so long as we are here, and be convinced of the truth.

We will sell goods on the same basis as we have done heretofore. Goods sold strictly for cash and one price to all.
